

Vasilis Athanasiou

Research Associate

Vasilis Athanasiou is a Researcher at the Digital Heritage Research Lab /UNESCO chair on Digital Cultural Heritage at CUT the last 4.5 years within various EU-funded project focusing his research on the digital cultural installations. Thanks to a Masters degree in Creative Technology obtained from the Leeds Metropolitan University, the researcher has a very interdisciplinary profile that covers several topics related to digital cultural heritage. Among them: Interactive installations, mutlitouch apps, digitisation, video production, image editing, user experience, projection mapping.

These topics have been developed within the tasks he completed during his work experience at UBERACT Ltd (UK), Cinimod Studio (UK) and now in UNESCO Chair on Digital Cultural Heritage.